Educating young men presents unique challenges and requires a specialized approach. Prepare yourself for the upcoming school year by joining the educators and administrators of the Eagle Academy for Young Men at the Professional Development Institute. Our two-day intensive institute will emphasize techniques and best practices, within and outside of the classroom, which you can implement to make a tangible and dramatic difference in the academic and personal development of your male students.

Founded in 2004, the Eagle Academy has distinguished itself as a national leader in educating male youth. We have effectively created a community of educators, mentors, and parents that are united in our mission to educate and develop young men into future leaders committed to excellence in character, scholastic achievement and community service. The Eagle Academy for Young Men currently serves 600 male students at two schools in New York City. The Professional Development Institute was created in response to the numerous requests that we receive from educators throughout the country on what the Eagle methodology is, how it works, and how it can be applied to other schools.

Workshops

- Strategies for Engaging Young Men in the Classroom
- Making a Difference with Mentoring
- Strategies for Student Discipline
- Making a Difference in Parent Engagement
- Creating Extracurricular Programs with Impact
- Creating Traditions and Building Community

The Professional Development Institute was designed so that each workshop forms part of a comprehensive curriculum. Therefore, all participants will attend each of the six seminars to ensure understanding of our multi-faceted approach to educating males. We look forward to seeing you at the Eagle Academy for Young Men!
